

In memory of our friend and partner, Mr. Ing. Walter Terpetschnig

23.05.1943 - 14.12.2005

On the evening of 14th December 2005, Walter Terpetschnig passed away suddenly. The death came unexpectedly, because Walter Terpetschnig had made a healthy impression on all of us with his ongoing energy. He knew about his heart disease that escorted him from childhood. Nevertheless, the news impacted all who knew him, like a bolt from the sky.

The last of his many travels led him to Carinthia where he met some relatives and friends from his youth. He was always held in high esteem by his family and friends. In particular, he was very proud of his grandson Carlin.

In his leisure time, he enjoyed being among family and friends. On good days he spent his time at his cottage in the mountains. He was passionate about sailing and was a happy person. When he enjoyed good spells he was a popular dinner companion. We all have been influenced by his happy personality and naturalness, which was always his way in life.

With the passing away of Walter Terpetschnig TBM Automation AG has lost one of its most outstanding partners and colleagues, and an excellent engineer. Walter Terpetschnig was known internationally as highly respected expert for shot peening process technology and CNC controls in the aerospace industry.

In the months after his death, we became aware of his enormous daily workload - weekends included. He has significantly influenced our company and made our corporate culture become what it is today.

We have lost not only an exemplary, reliable, competent and loyal partner and colleague, but also a valuable friend, who deserved our confidence and appreciation.

He is sadly missed by many and we gratefully honour his commemoration. Our sympathy goes out to his family, especially to his wife Ulrike and his daughters Paula and Christine with their families.

With great respect and gratitude
The staff of TBM Automation AG
